Tradition's Recommends ...

Marchese Antinori, Guado Al Tasso, Il Bruciato, Toscana (2015) $55 / $16 GLASS *
(Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Syrah)

- Rated 93 by Wine Spectator -

This is dark but not brooding, with a burst of ripe black currant & black cherry fruit shaded by licorice, spice and mint. Features grip and a lingering finish

"Rose" - Maison Saleya - Cotes de Provence, France (2016) $35 / $9 GLASS *

Beautiful light pink in color with lovely floral, citrus and white fruit aromas.
The palate is lively, rich and dry, with flavors of white peach and red berry.

Rosso di Montalcino, Silvio Nardi, Toscana - Italy (2014) $42 / $14 GLASS *

Red berry and blue flower aromas lead the way on this easy-drinking red. Light & simple, the slim palate has delicate nuances of strawberry with a hint of spice & bright acidity.

Stag's Leap, "Artemis," Cabernet Sauvignon - Napa Valley, California (2015) $100

- Rated 93 by Wine Advocate -

Aromas of dark cherry and berry fruit, cassis, sweet vanilla, and hint of olive. Smooth on the palate with an aftertaste of black cherry and cocoa

 * "Rose" - Domaines Ott, Chateau De Selle - France (2017) $95 * *

- Rated 92 by Wine Enthusiast -

Pale in color, this ripe wine is beautifully balanced. It does have rich fruit, raspberries and wild strawberries. It also has a fine texture with plenty of acidity as well as a touch of pepper.

Rust En Vrede, Stellenbosch - South Africa (2013) $80
(Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Syrah)

- Rated 91 by Wine Enthusiast -

This is a ripe and dense yet well-balanced wine, offering forward aromas of boysenberry and deep, juicy red plum that are accented by notes of cocoa nib, roasted espresso and char.

Nozzole, Riserva, Chianti Classico - Toscana (2014) $55

- Rated 90 by Wine Enthusiast -

Aromas of scorched earth, black cooking spice and ripe berry lead the nose. The medium-bodied, easy-drinking palate doles out fleshy black cherry, ripe raspberry, licorice and polished tannins.

Cakebread, Chardonnay, Napa Valley - California (2016) $85

- Rated 90 by Wine Enthusiast -

Enchanting floral and golden apple aromas introduce concentrated melon, white peach and lively citrus flavors complemented by hints of vanilla. Rich & full-bodied, yet elegant and finely structured.

TRADITIONS 118 RESTAURANT

IS THE PROUD RECIPIENT OF

WHITE WINE

Fact... You can get a white wine from a red grape by removing the skins from the juice immediately. All the color comes from the skins... even red grapes are white inside. White wines tend to pair better with lighter foods such as green veggies, some chicken dishes, and fish.

BUBBLY

Champagne has launched thousands of ships, toasted billions of weddings, and shared countless special moments between people. French champagne is normally a blend of chardonnay, pinot noir, or pinot blanc grapes, as in the United States, however we classify “champagne” as sparkling wine.

---- Italian Reds ----

Italy is one of the world's largest producers of wine, accounting for around 20% of the world's total production. Wine is made in each of the twenty region across the country, as well as its island regions of Sicily and Sardinia.

Each region produces diverse wines of all styles and tastes.

Brunello

Montalcino is a small, medieval town just outside of the town of Siena. Brunello di Montalcino is created entirely from Sangiovese grapes. By Italian wine law, Brunello must be aged longer than any other wine, a minimum of four years. Brunello is subtle with overtones of blackberry, black cherry, chocolate, sweet vanilla. Drink it with the hearty dishes, including lamb, pork, & red meat.

Amarone

Made from air-dried, predominantly Corvina, grapes, Amarone is produced in the northern Veneto region near Venice. They are aged for five years or more before bottling. Amarone, the name means big or bitter one; is lush and complex. It has a powerful, concentrated, almost Port-like texture with hints of mocha. Best when paired with red meat, pork, and also with cheeses.

SUPER TUSCANS

In the 1970's Piero Antinori, whose family had been making wine for more than 600 years, decided to make a richer wine by adding Bordeaux varietals (namely, cabernet sauvignon and merlot). The result was the first Super Tuscan, which he named Tignanello, after the vineyard where the grapes were grown. Other winemakers started experimenting with Super Tuscan blends of their own shortly thereafter.

CHIANTI

The region of Chianti, located in central Tuscany, has been growing grapes since the 8th century B.C. Chianti is divided into seven separate wine zones, the most recognizable, Chianti Classico. All Chianti wines are comprised of the sangiovese grape, accounting for at least 75% of the blend. Chianti has an aroma of cherries and plums, and the best wines even have a slight spiciness and a touch of saltiness. Chianti is at its best when it accompanies food such as tomato-based dishes and hearty beefs.

BAROLO, BARBERSCO, & BARBERA

Barolo is one of the world's greatest red wines frequently referred to as "the king of wines." Barolo is made in the Langhe Hills region of Piedmont, entirely of Nebbiolo grapes. Big, powerful, and full-bodied with a complex mixture of tastes and textures; wild strawberry, tobacco, chocolate, and vanilla. Barbaresco is Barolo's near neighbor and stylistic soul mate, but tends to be softer and slightly more graceful. Barbera, grown in Alba and Asti are known for their bold blackberry and red fruit flavor.

MERLOT

Merlot is the most widely planted fine wine grape in the world, with nearly 460,000 acres cultivated in more than two dozen countries. Not quite as harsh as other reds, merlot has less tannin, however more herbaceous overall in both aroma and taste. It is mellow but still complex, known for the flavors of plums, black cherry, violets, and orange. Merlot wine is excellent with pasta, meats and even chocolate.

PINOT NOIR

The history of Pinot Noir tells us that it was named after the noble Pinot family who date back to the Roman era. The "noir" variety is typically a rich, full-bodied wine, but not too heavy. Pinot Noir is very diverse, however are typically high in alcohol and are neither acidic nor tannic. Generally, Pinot Noir is best enjoyed with less hearty fare such as fish, pasta, and leafy greens.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON

The History of Cabernet Sauvignon is actually less than six hundred years old, which makes it a relative newcomer to the world of wine grapes. Although grown all over the world, California is one of the world's largest producers of Cabernet Sauvignon. Its distinctive black currant aroma can develop bouquet nuances of cedar and violets, its typically tannic edge may soften and smooth considerably with age. Nothing goes better with a glass of "cab" than a tender red meat, a juicy barbequed steak, as well as grilled and smoked proteins.

CABERNET BLENDS

“Diverse blends make for happy meritages.” Cabernet sauvignon is often blended with Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Malbec, and Petite Verdot, to produce world-class wines. Often referred to as meritages or bordeaux, these blends result in a truly unique and typically very smooth yet bold tasting wine.
